MORE TAKING PART IN REC PROGRAM HERE

Attendance at the various playgrounds in the town, perhaps stimulated by the appearance of the Navy jet plane at Recreation Park, totaled 2,022 during the week. Chester Hilger, recreation director, said the number was 300 more than for the comparable week a year ago.

Families and children who went to visit the park only to see the plane are not counted, however, in the attendance figures which are based on actual participation in organized play.

Those attending the playgrounds this week were presented with mimeographed sheets outlining the "Junior Champ Program," sponsored by the Gettysburg Junior Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the Recreation Association.

By Age Groups
For the contests the children will be divided into different age groups: One group of girls between 9 and 10, and another between 11 and 12 for a baton twirling event. Boys will be divided into these age groups, 7 and 8, 9 and 10, 11 and 12, 13 and 14. Their events will include running, broad jump, softball throw for distance, football throw for accuracy, sprints and various dashes. Preliminaries will be run off at the Recreation Park during the week of August 10 to 14, with the finals taking place on the Gettysburg High School Athletic Field during the evening of August 20. Prizes will be awarded the ultimate winners. Those participating are asked to present a parental permission slip.

Among activities this week on the playgrounds:
Mrs. Carol B. Bream reported 36 boys and girls out of 107 taking part in the swimming program at the college pool have signed for Red Cross intermediate and swimmers classes. She also reported plans for the girls at the College Field playground to hold a picnic Thursday on the battlefield.

Choose Play Cast
Gary H. Bechtel, crafts and dramatics instructor for the recreation program, announced that the cast of one play has been chosen, but that two boys are needed if another play is to be case. Sufficient girls have shown an interest to fill out the girls' parts in the second play, but boys are needed for those parts if the play is to be held. Those interested are asked to contact either Mr. Hilger or Mr. Bechtel as soon as possible.

The cast for the play "Bobby Sox Brigade" includes Muriel Hartman, Sharon Sprinkle, Anne Weinberg, Jane Elker, Nancy Kuhn, Robert Selby and Walton Jones. The play will be presented August 13.

Plan Touch Football
Sidney Steimour reported the tennis class has visited York to watch a tournament there; has started its own tournament and next week will view an instructional film on tennis in addition to continuing the present tournament.

Robert Zeigler, instrumental music instructor, announced increased attendance in the beginning class at 11 a.m. Thursdays out. A concert is planned by the and urged more beginners to turn music class during the final week of the playground program.

John Toggas, boys' activities supervisor at Keefeauver Field, reported plans to establish a touch football team there next week. A "Bike Dress-up" contest is scheduled for Wednesday, with bicycle races following the contest. Miss (Continued On Page 3)

Burglars broke into the S. R. Baumgardner service station, Seven Stars, overnight. State police, called to investigate, found the burglars had apparently broken a lavatory window to gain access to the station and removed six cartons of cigarettes.

Approximately 70, including the FFA officers, officials of the U. S. Departments of Education and Agriculture, and an Arlington youth group, are scheduled to be present for the program.

Redding, who is past state chairman of the FFA, will be among representatives of the state FFA participating. Lighter will read the prayer given by Dr. T. H. Stockton, then chaplain of the Senate at the services dedicating the Gettysburg National Cemetery in 1863. One of the national FFA officials will read the Gettysburg Address. The program will include talks on Lincoln.

Unshaken By Jousts With Red Chief, Nixon Visits Kremlin

By JOHN SCALI

MOSCOW (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon called at the Kremlin today and told First Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov that he and his wife have been "very touched at our warm reception."

Nixon was clearly unshaken by his verbal jousts Friday with Premier Nikita Khrushchev when at times their words reached a heated pitch.

"Not only officially but unofficially we have been very pleased at our reception by people in all walks of life" the vice president told Kozlov.

Kozlov only recently returned from a tour of the United States. He opened the Soviet Exhibition in New York June 28.

Nixon's first call this morning was to see First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan to talk trade. He met a somewhat frosty reception but he laughed it off.

The vice president took with him Harold Boeschenstein, president of Owens Corning Fiber Glass Corp., of Toledo, Ohio.

HOUSE BURNS THIS MORNING AT 5 POINTS

Firemen from four companies were called this morning about 9 o'clock when fire broke out in a farm house near Five Points, owned by Raymond Jacobs and tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. Willie Sloan and two children.

The fire was reported as "stubborn" and firemen were continuing to fight the blaze at 11 o'clock this morning. The fire was believed to have been started by wiring.

Firemen were reported as saying the fire was in logs of the log and brick seven-room house formerly owned by the late Clarence M. Kennedy Sr., and located on New Oxford R. 2.

Mrs. J. A. Smith, New Oxford R. 2, a neighbor, said men who had been at the fire told her the furnishings and clothing had been removed by the family from the building, but that firemen were having a difficult time extinguishing the blaze imbedded in the logs. It was reported that the smoke and fire had caused so much damage "it would be cheaper to build rather than repair."

Firemen had not returned to the engine house by press time to give details of the blaze. Radio communications to fire trucks at the scene could not immediately bring further information.

New Oxford, York Springs, Hampton and Abbottstown firemen were called to the home located near the J. A. Smith hide and rendering plant, near Five Points.

FARMERS TO PICNIC

Statuesque 'Miss Japan' Is Chosen As 'Miss Universe'

By PATRICK MCNULTY

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The pearl crown of Miss Universe rested today on the pretty head of a statuesque fashion model from Japan, the first Oriental to win the international beauty pageant.

The announcement Friday night that leggy Akiko Kojima, 22, had won the coveted crown, brought a roar of applause from the 4,200 spectators jammed into Long Beach Memorial Auditorium.

"I didn't think I would win," said the Tokyo beauty, who stands 5 feet 6 and measures 37-23-36.

"So Very Happy"
"I am oh so very happy," she said in her faltering English and then, as tears glistened beautifully in the corners of her almond eyes, she added: "Thank you very much. Thank you so much."

The runners-up, in order of finish, were: Miss Norway, Jorunn Kristiansen, 18, who stands 5 feet 8 and measures 36-24-35. An aspiring gym teacher, she said she is homesick but may stay in southern California for a movie test in Hollywood.

President Golfs Between Showers

President Eisenhower played a fast 18 holes of golf late Friday afternoon at the Gettysburg Country Club with his friend, George Allen. Early afternoon showers kept them off the golf course until about 4:30 p.m.

The President and Allen returned to the country club course this morning shortly after 8:30 o'clock for more golf after light early morning showers.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower drove to their farm here from Washington late Friday morning and expect to remain there until Sunday evening or Monday morning.

C-D BULLETIN CARRIES NOTE OF URGENCY

Heads of Civil Defense in Adams County today were receiving "Advisory Bulletin No. 234" from the national office of Civil Defense Mobilization, which County CD Director William G. Weaver characterized by observing: "This time they sound like they're worried."

Wordings of the bulletin on "Individual and Family Survival Requirements" suggests an immediacy that was lacking in prior bulletins from the national CD officials outlining steps that should be taken by individuals to protect themselves in the event of attack, Weaver said.

In addition to the destruction of target areas by the blast and heat effects of thermonuclear weapons, radioactive fallout contamination could immobilize the citizenry for days or weeks in much of the remaining part of the nation . . . therefore . . . individuals and families will be prepared to exist on personal stocks of survival items in homes and shelter areas for two weeks following attack.

May Be Little Warning
According to the bulletin, "If you do not already keep a two-week food supply in your home, increase it according to once. Maintain it continuously."

At best warning in advance of an attack will precede the catastrophe by three hours; more likely will be only a half hour in advance of the arrival of the bombs and there may not be any time at all to give warning, according to the CD bulletin.

Federal officials ask local CD directors to urge the public to "be alert. The first warning in case of attack will probably come by radio, television or local warning devices. Be on the alert for such warning, particularly during periods of acute international tensions."

Urges Home Shelters
"If outdoors and you cannot reach a shelter, lie flat on the ground face down; or open the windows and crouch on the floor of the car."

In event of attack civilians are asked to report to their nearest CD welfare office after it is safe to move about. "The welfare (Continued On Page 2)

Statuesque 'Miss Japan' Is Chosen As 'Miss Universe'

Miss United States, Terry Lynn Huntington, 19, Mount Shasta, Calif. She's 5 feet 6 1/2 and 36-23-36. The UCLA coed is studying dancing, but she said she may take a fling at the movies on the strength of her Miss USA laurels.

Miss England, Pamela Anne Searle, 21, a willowy 5 feet 7, she measures 36-24-36. A drama student in England, Miss Searle said she is anxious to take a crack at a movie screen test offered her this Monday.

Miss Brazil, Vera Ribeiro, 19, a leggy 5-foot-7 brunette from Rio who measures 37-23-37, she said she has had no movie offers so far—and she's homesick.

The new Miss Universe, posing regally in her crown and robe after the contest, said she had a movie offer and plans to make a test next week in Hollywood.

Miss Kojima, who succeeds Colombia's Luz Marina Zuluaga, broke a two-year hold that Latin beauties had held on the Miss Universe title.

Glady's Zender of Peru won the title in 1957.

Socialite Admits Kidnap Tale Hoax; Says Memory's Blank

CHICAGO (AP)—A New Jersey socialite heiress has admitted her story of being kidnaped from the Newark airport by two men, driven to Chicago and then released because she was "too hot" to keep a myth.

Pretty Jacqueline Gay Hart, 21, broke down Friday under the gentle questioning of her father, Ralph A. Hart, executive vice president of the Colgate-Palmolive Co., and an FBI agent. After confessing the hoax, Miss Hart said she did not remember what had happened since she vanished from the New Jersey airport Tuesday night.

The FBI said it was checking all phases of Miss Hart's story which unfolded after she appeared, screaming and crying, "Help me, help me!" beside a police cruiser in downtown Grant Park early Friday.

Seek Missing Jewels
Authorities sent out a broadcast describing the 1 1/2 carat diamond ring, an amethyst ring, a brooch and a bracelet which she said the men stripped from her. At the outset, the FBI and police were skeptical of the girl's story of being seized, blindfolded and gagged, tossed in the tonneau of a car under a blanket and driven by two abductors to Chicago and then released in the lakefront park.

Police said Miss Hart's smart gray tweed dress, white sweater, black shoes and sheer stockings failed to show any of the wear and tear which an ordeal such as she described would have inflicted. And her one bruise—on her left arm—failed to tally with her account of being struck in the mouth by one of her captors after he locked her in the bathroom of an unidentified house in the Chicago area before her release.

Unsolved Mystery
Hart said his daughter is suffering from nervous exhaustion and is under a physician's care somewhere in Chicago. He said (Continued On Page 3)

GENEVA QUIET FOR WEEKEND, MEET MONDAY

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (P) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter may propose next week a longer recess of the Big Four conference unless the Soviet Union softens her terms for easing the Berlin crisis. But he chances both Western and Soviet opposition.

As the foreign ministers' conference went into its ninth week, the Allies were divided over whether their talks with the Soviet Union are progressing. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko has been talking about the need to formula.

The parley was in recess today with only Gromyko expected to remain here throughout the week end.

Good Will Visit

Herter was expected to return here tonight after a flying good-will visit to West Berlin, his first visit to the divided city since becoming secretary of state. Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd went to London for consultation while Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France was on a trip to Brussels and Paris.

The next meeting is set for late Monday, a secret session at Lloyd's residence. Herter reportedly hopes to get some intimation at that time whether there is any chance that Gromyko will give way on the key issue — his proposal for creation of a committee of East and West Germans to negotiate on a German peace settlement.

The West repeatedly has rejected this demand. Gromyko has been insistent in demanding its acceptance as the price for his agreement to a Berlin truce. The Western ministers say they will never agree to any new machinery granting Communist East Germany equality with West Germany.

The afternoon will be devoted to swimming, eating or taking part in activities at the amusement park there. At 5 p.m. the group will board ship with supper to be served on board ship. office will be the source of information concerning survivors and disaster conditions, the means for contacting friends and separated family members, and the place where you can learn how to obtain the specific assistance you may need.

Residents are urged by the bulletin to make home shelters, with earth for shielding around it and on top. Where no shelter exists: "To the extent that time permits, (it may take an hour or more for fallout to reach your home) and dense shielding materials are readily available, you can improvise shelter in a selected area in your home. To improve for fallout protection, stack dense shielding materials such as solid concrete blocks, sandbags, bricks, around your shelter area, place supports across the top and cover with dense material."

"After a thermonuclear attack, a most difficult task of survivors will be that of obtaining food and water without over-exposing themselves to fallout radiation. This fact emphasizes the importance of keeping on hand at least a two-week supply of food and water. This supply can mean the difference between life and death. Seven gallons of water per person is a minimum two-week supply."

SAYS FEDERAL FUNDS NEEDED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pennsylvania's secretary of health, Dr. Charles L. Wilbar, says federal grants are a needed stimulus for construction of municipal sewage plants.

Dr. Wilbar testified Thursday at a Senate Public Works subcommittee hearing on a proposal to end the federal grant-in-aid program for construction of sewage plants.

He said experience has shown that local and state groups are willing to provide their share of construction costs, but that federal grants are important as a "needed catalyst and stimulus" in the field.

Dr. Wilbar said 70 per cent of industries which discharge wastes into streams have provided proper treatment facilities and the remainder are planning to do so. But he added, 54 per cent of the municipalities with sewer systems are not properly treating wastes, despite the fact that Pennsylvania spent more than any other state for sewage treatment work in the 1952-57 period.

Today's Talk

SLEEP

The longer I live the more I appreciate the life heritage of that gift of the Creator—good, healthful sleep. Anew each night we can be blessed by the power of silent rest.

Reading in the life of that inspiring English editor of years gone by, Sir W. Robertson Nicoll, he said: "Now that I have bought an annuity, I know that I have bought sleep." We can learn to sleep without an annuity, however, if we will to do so, while in health.

Cheerfulness, all absence of worry, and inspiring interests will go far in getting you to value sleep. The body is the greatest machine ever created, and it will work wonders in an instant if called upon. It is its own policeman, and director of a nerve system that is truly remarkable. These nerves are the watchers that send messages day and night. With kindly and steady nerves, each of us gets our sleep. The body responds like a miracle. With plenty of stored energy we can look forward hopefully and with confidence that we shall be able to ride out any storm. But sleep is one of the essentials. Therefore we must be prepared. There is renewal going on every time we rest or go to sleep for the night. Be friendly with those nerves of yours!

A Bit Of History About Early Settlers

By B. F. M. MacPHERSON

B. F. M. MacPHERSON

COLONEL DUNBAR'S FLIGHT

The account of the defeat of General Edward Braddock and his army by the French and Indian allies, with some mention of the disastrous period which followed, is continued at this time. By the time General Braddock had mounted his fifth horse (four others had been shot from under him during the course of the battle) he was so infuriated that he was running his men through with his sword. One of the men he killed, so runs the legend, was a Pennsylvanian named Fawcett. This soldier, a colonial, persisted in fighting Indian fashion and in spite of the general's commands — refused to stand in the open and give the enemy a live target. As a result Braddock, who considered this act of a coward, killed the man. Unfortunately for the British officer, Tom Fawcett (or Fossit), a brother of the colonial, was an eye witness to what he considered outright murder whereupon he "drew a bead on the general" and brought him off his horse, mortally wounded. Whether or not the fatal shot was fired in this manner, Braddock was down and all pretense of discipline was a thing of the past. This took place between four and five o'clock in the afternoon. Apparently the press at the lower end of the road had eased, for the dammed stream of humanity above was now able to move its thinning ranks.

As soon as they realized they could get away, the soldiers, in sheer blind terror, ran for their lives, throwing away their weapons, knapsacks, and even some of their clothes in their terrified haste. Braddock would probably have been trampled to death had not one of his aides, Captain Robert Orme, stood over him while Bishop, his negro body servant, tried to stanch the wound. Orme, wounded himself, tried in vain to get help in moving the wounded general; the maddened fugitives pressed on, flinging a curse at him and doubtless adding that they hoped the general would get his just deserts. Braddock was not popular — then or since.

Col. Washington Came By

Colonel Washington and George Croghan finally came by and lifted the dying man to the back of a horse and then into a wagon, in spite of his protests that he wished to be left on field of "his disgrace." After this, Colonel George Washington turned back and joined the few surviving officers and a handful of men holding the fort; a rear action so well fought that the French and Indians had no stomach for further combat but occupied themselves with the spoils of the battlefield.

That night General Braddock sent Colonel George Washington, George Croghan, and a few light-horsemen to Colonel Dunbar, who had encamped on Chestnut Ridge, with instructions to bring up wagons and supplies for the wounded, while the refugees made their way as best they could to Dunbar's Camp. There all was alarm and confusion, and no consideration seems to have been given to the possibility that defeat could yet be turned into victory for the English forces. Dunbar had no intention of making another attempt against Fort Duquesne or even wire and safety pins this year, but not in 1961." The politically divided Legislature has been deadlocked on a 1959-61 tax program for four months with no indication of an immediate end to the impasse.

Need "Wider Avenues"

Hays told the educators that the state should seek "wider avenues of taxation" to meet the Commonwealth's school needs—a responsibility that takes a huge chunk out of the state budget.

"If public education is to continue to do what we say it does and what we say it should do, we had better look for wider avenues of taxation," said Hays, a member of the Senate Education Committee.

The Lawrence administration has said it is considering the possibility of calling a special session of the Legislature which would delve solely into the problem of devising new ways to pay for the state's growing education bill.

Necessity, and about twenty yards from a little hollow in which there was a small stream of water, and over it a bridge." In 1812, some workmen, under the direction of Abraham Stewart, repairing the road at a point near the place mentioned by Colonel Burd, unearthed the skeleton and trappings of a British officer. These were, very probably, General Braddock's remains. Some of the bones were taken away by relic hunters, but all were later collected by Mr. Stewart — who felt himself somewhat responsible for their reburial. In 1820 the skeleton was interred a few rods from the original grave and a monument now marks the spot.

Claimed Fatal Shot

Thomas (or Tom) Fossit (Fausset), a colonial in Braddock's army, said by some to have been enlisted at Shippensburg, Pa., maintained to the end of his long life that he fired the bullet that inflicted on General Braddock the wound that caused his death. Fossit said that his brother, Joseph Fossit, was killed by Braddock for attempting to seek shelter during the battle. Whereupon, in revenge, he, "Old Tom," shot the general. For a number of years Fossit ran a small tavern not far from Braddock's burial place, where he related his story to all who were even slightly interested. Some historians believe Fossit's story to be true — at this late date it can only be said that it can neither be proved or disproved.

Late in the afternoon the day of Braddock's defeat, young James Smith, who had been captured by the Indians a short time before, was prowling restlessly about Fort Duquesne, when he heard a number of halloo and saw a company of French and Indians arrive laden with British canteens, bayonets, grenadiers' hats, and scalp. This was the only first of a long procession. The sun sank behind red over the towering height beyond the Monongahela, and still the victors continued to come into the fort with spoils from the battlefield. Savages from beyond the lakes, who had never known anything better than buckskin and the woolen-trade blankets called strouds, strutted about the fort in scarlet coats, silver gorgets, and gold-laced hats. The sharp reports of muskets were heard as the Indians, reveling in the possession of a superabundance of gunpowder, spent it in a frenzy of jubilation. There were scalps, hundreds of them, still dripping blood as the Indians stretched them on hoops to cure. Young Smith watched from the ramparts of the fort the torture of the prisoners — taken on that fatal day — and was so sickened by what he saw and heard that he retreated to his quarters.

The torture scene at Fort Duquesne, after the defeat of General Braddock, was only one of many such that occurred near the fort during its occupation by the French. The commandants were merciful men and did all that they could to prevent the torture of prisoners, but unless the Indians would sell their captives there was little the French officers could do. Undergarrisoned and undersupplied, the French were largely dependent upon the Indians both for defense and for carrying the war into the English settlements, and they could not afford to antagonize their allies.

Thus ended, for General Edward Braddock and the majority of his officers and many of his enlisted men, the attempt to capture Fort Duquesne and drive the French from western Pennsylvania.

FACT AND FICTION
New Novel Mixes Fancy With Facts
But Facts Often Ruin A Good Story

JIM DAN HILL, Ph.D.

POMPEY'S HEAD is a decadent but large coastal city between Charleston and Savannah. It has a rice and cotton economy, but whether Pompey's Head is in South Carolina or Georgia is not clear.

A n atlas offers no help because the city exists only in the mind of novelist Hamilton Basso. It is his private literary plantation, whence he has harvested two highly profitable books.

ORIGINALLY Mr. Basso, a native of New Orleans, was a biography. His life of Louisiana's General Pierre Gustave Toutant Beauregard, C.S.A., is perhaps the best in print. But in writing it, the author apparently encountered the one great frustration that sooner or later confronts all historians and biographers.

That frustration comes from the complete realization that nothing ruins a good story like sticking to the truth.

SINCE MR. BASSO felt the urge to tell interesting stories above all else, he did the honorable thing. He publicly cast off moorings from his wharf of facts to embark upon more profitable, book-length voyages in fancy and fiction.

Seven novels later, he now demonstrates in "Light Infantry Ball" that a glorious finale — but a lesson harshly taught. Several years later General Forbes, profiting from their mistakes, would succeed — would turn failure into success.

The notes on Black's Graveyard (Upper Marsh Creek Presbyterian) will be continued in this column next week.

Dillsburg Hits Hard To Eliminate Littlestown 9-2 In Area Playoffs

A bombardment of heavy hitting and five Littlestown errors gave the Dillsburg Little League All-Stars a decisive 9-2 win Friday evening on McSherry Field, Littlestown, in the final game of local area play and eliminated Littlestown from competition. Littlestown defeated Gettysburg Thursday while Dillsburg entered the finals by downing Mt. Holly Springs on Wednesday.

Littlestown ran into trouble in the first frame when Dillsburg tallied three times to take an early lead. An infield miscue placed Ed Books on first Vern Vandevender followed with a four base blast over the right field fence. Dick Stevens lashed a single to center, stole second and scored on Barry Zeigler's safety to left.

Dillsburg crossed the plate three more times in the top of the third before Littlestown entered the scoring column in the bottom half of the inning. Dillsburg's Ed Danner led off with a long fly ball over the deep left field wall. Vandevender then uncorked a single to left and pitcher Dick Stevens followed with another explosive hit over the center field fence.

Littlestown Scores

Littlestown tallied their two runs when Jim Weaver drew a walk. Terry Morelock got on via a fielder's choice. Greg Myers lined a single to right driving in Morelock, and Tommy Gingrow sent the right fielder against the wall with a sacrifice fly sending in Myers.

Dillsburg went on to score once in the fifth and two in the sixth. In the bottom of the sixth Littlestown's Roger Orndorff tripped to deep right, but was left stranded when Jim Strevig struck out. Neal Leister walked. Jeff Rebert grounded out to the pitcher, and Larry Conover went down swinging.

Bob Smith started on the mound for Littlestown but needed help from Greg Myers in the third. Dick Stevens went the distance for Dillsburg striking out eight and walking four. Vern Vandevender and Dick Stevens paced the winners hitting attack with a trio of safeties for the same number of trips to the plate. Roger Orndorff singled, doubled and tripled for Littlestown.

PHILS OUTHIT BUT THEY WIN

CINCINNATI (AP)—Here's a switch: The Philadelphia Phillies were out-hit last night, but they won. Usually it's the other way around.

The Phillies, however, have been winning lately, and last night Carl Sawatski pulled one out of the fire with a pinch hit homer in the ninth to beat the Cincinnati Reds 2-1. It was Philadelphia's fourth straight victory.

That homer ruined the major league debut of Jay Hook, a 22-year-old right-hander. He had shut out going and two out in the ninth when Sawatski smacked his home run. Gene Freese, who had walked scored ahead of him.

Ninth Pinch Homer

It was the Phillies ninth pinch hit homer of the season. They lead the National League.

Until the eighth, southpaw Jim Owens (6-8) also had a shutout going. But Eddie Kasko hit a home run before the inning was over for the Reds' only run.

The Reds almost tied the score in the bottom of the ninth. Sawatski had batted for Owens and Taylor Phillips was pitching. Frank Robinson and Jim Pendleton singled off him with one out. But Ray Semproch was brought in and promptly put out the next two batters. Owens was the winner.

The Phillies had seven hits, including three by Joe Koppe. The Reds had eight. Both teams missed several scoring opportunities in the early innings.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Horace B. Northcott, 64, general advertising manager of the Union Pacific Railroad since 1945, collapsed and died Thursday.

Sleichter Fifth In Golf Tourney

Charlie Bassler, Turf Valley Club, Baltimore, won the Middle Atlantic PGA pro-amateur tourney at the Fountain Head Country Club, Hagerstown, by touring the course with a four-under-par 66.

Dick Sleichter, Gettysburg pro, tied for fifth place in the pro division with an even par 36-34-70. Eldon Joiner, Fountain Head Club, won the amateur division with a one over par 71. Six pros tied for first place in the pro-amateur division with 62's.

SMITH'S BAT KEEPS CHISOX AT TOP IN AL

Associated Press Sports Writer

Al Smith, the guy they used to boo, now is the big man with the eleven-hour bat for Chicago's White Sox, who don't win by much but make the most of it.

The Sox retained their half-game lead in the American League by beating Baltimore 2-1 Friday night, and it was Smith's ninth-inning home run that did it, giving southpaw Billy Pierce the edge in a duel with Hoyt Wilhelm after Nellie Fox's two-out triple had tied it in the eighth.

It was Chicago's 22nd one-run victory against five defeats. It also was the 16th decision the Sox have put away in the final inning—and the fifth time Smith has done the job.

Second-place Cleveland stayed close by whipping Washington 5-2. Detroit rapped New York 4-1 and Kansas City made it five straight with a 3-1 decision over Boston.

No. 8 For Smith

The winning homer was No. 8 for Smith, who was hobbled by a bum ankle last season and was given a bum rap by Chicago fans when he replaced the popular Minnie Minoso in left field after a swap with the Indians. It was the third time Smith has homered for a last-inning decision for the Sox, who have bagged only 11 of their 54 victories by more than three runs, and only 20 by more than two.

The Indians broke right-hander Camilo Pascual's winning streak at seven while Gary Bell (9-9) skidded the Senators to their fifth straight defeat with a six-hitter. Cleveland scored in the second off Pascual (11-8) on Jim Baxes' solo home run, then clinched it in the third on George Strickland's two-run single. Roy Sievers' scored both Nat runs with his 15th and 16th homers.

Record For Mossi

Don Mossi (8-4) became only the fifth southpaw in the last 25 years to beat the Yankees five times in one season. He had a four-hit shut-out until the ninth, when Elston Howard hit a two-run homer. Don Larsen (6-6) lost his fifth in a row, lasting only through a two-run first inning touched off by Eddie Yost's 13th homer, his one season high. The Tigers, only a game behind the fourth-place champs, who trail by eight, scored a deciding pair against reliever Eli Grba in the sixth on a walk, error and singles by Lou Berberet and Ted Lepcio.

Three singles and an error gave Kansas City two runs in the third and Dick Williams then hit his ninth home run—fourth in four games—in the fifth off loser Frank Sullivan (6-6). Johnny Kucks (4-6) won it, allowing nine hits.

GIANTS' LEAD BOLSTERED BY WIN OVER CUBS

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Antonelli had more trouble at Seals Stadium Friday night. But the San Francisco Giants hustled an ailing Willie Mays off the bench and Sam (Dependable) Jones out of the bullpen for a 2½-game lead in the National League race.

It was Jim Davenport's two-out, 10th inning single that gave the Giants a 6-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs, but only after Mays, out of the line-up because of a sore neck, had come through with a pinch-hit single as San Francisco gained a 5-5 tie in the eighth. And it was Jones, an ace as a starter or in relief, who blanked the Cubs on one hit over the last two frames for his 14th victory.

Antonelli, still smarting from the rebuttal after blaming the Giants' wind-blown park for two two homers that beat him earlier in the week, got in trouble when the Cubs overhauled a 2-0 Giant lead with three in the fifth, touched off by Bobby Thomson's home run.

Dodgers Slip

Second-place Los Angeles slipped with a 2-1 defeat by the St. Louis Cardinals. The Dodgers now are just two games ahead of the third-place Milwaukee Braves, who rapped Pittsburgh 8-0 behind Juan Pizarro's four-hitter. Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 2-1 on Carl Sawatski's two-run pinch-hit homer in the ninth.

A walk, sacrifice and Davenport's single after an intentional walk to Mays, added another game to the Giants' lead as they beat reliever Don Elston (5-8) for their third in a row.

Southpaw Johnny Podres (8-7) lost his third in a row for the Dodgers after balking the Cardinals on three hits until the eighth inning. Then four singles gave the Cards both runs, with Bill White's hit tying it 1-1 and Gino Cimoli's two-out hit beating his ex-mates.

Adcock Homers

Joe Adcock hit a two-run homer, his 10th, in the first inning for the Braves, then added another RBI with a single in a four-run fifth against lower Harvey Haddix (7-8). Pizarro (3-1), the young lefty who earlier pitched a two-hit shutout against the Bucs, struck out a dozen in this one, fanning every Pirate at least once.

Rookie right-hander Jay Hook (1-1) had the Phils shut out on five hits until the ninth when he gave up a walk ahead of Sawatski's fifth home run, the ninth pinch-hit homer by the Phils this season. Jim Owens (6-8) was the winner, blanking the Reds on five hits until the eighth, when Eddie Kasko hit his first home run.

CASEY HOWLS AT STRATEGY OF MR. DYKES

By DAVE DILES

Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP)—Casey Stengel is miffed at Jimmie Dykes because the Detroit Tiger boss manages to have Don Mossi and Frank Lary ready to pitch every time the Tigers meet the New York Yankees.

"He holds them back, that's what he does," cried Stengel today. "Hell, he saved that Mossi back a whole week just so he could pitch against us. Every time we play this team I can depend on seeing those two pitchers."

But Dykes had a sharp reply waiting for the grizzled Yankee manager.

Seventh Straight Win

"I've been called a lot of things," he replied "but they don't accuse Dykes of being stupid too often. I'd be crazy not to use Mossi and Lary. Just for evidence, look what those guys have done to Stengel's club."

Mossi beat the Yankees Friday night 4-2, pitching a six-hitter and coming within two outs of a shutout until Elston Howard a two-run home run in the ninth.

The sly southpaw has beaten the Yanks seven straight times. His 1959 record against them is five starts, five complete games, and a total of six earned runs.

Lary, whose 19-5 lifetime mark against New York is the best of any active pitcher, has whipped the defending world champions three times without a loss this year.

OLMEDO AND M'KAY FACE FOREIGNERS

HAVERFORD, Pa. (AP)—Two relatively unknown foreign players challenged Wimbledon champion Alex Olmedo and highly-ranked Barry MacKay today in the semifinal round of the Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis Singles Championship.

Olmedo was paired with Ian Vermaak of South Africa, and MacKay with Ramanathan Krishnan, an Indian Davis Cup player, as the 60th renewal of the tournament nears its climax.

Olmedo Has Trouble

Olmedo, regarded as the top U. S. hope for retaining the Davis Cup, had a difficult time in his quarterfinal match Friday with Mike Green of UCLA.

The Peruvian tennis star won out 6-3, 5-7, 6-4 over the hardhitting Green, a Miami, Fla., resident.

Vermaak pulled the surprise of the quarterfinals by dumping the fourth-seeded Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, 10-8, 8-6. The South African came from behind in both sets to win over Buchholz, another Davis Cup prospect and winner of the U. S. and English junior championships last year.

Women's Pairings

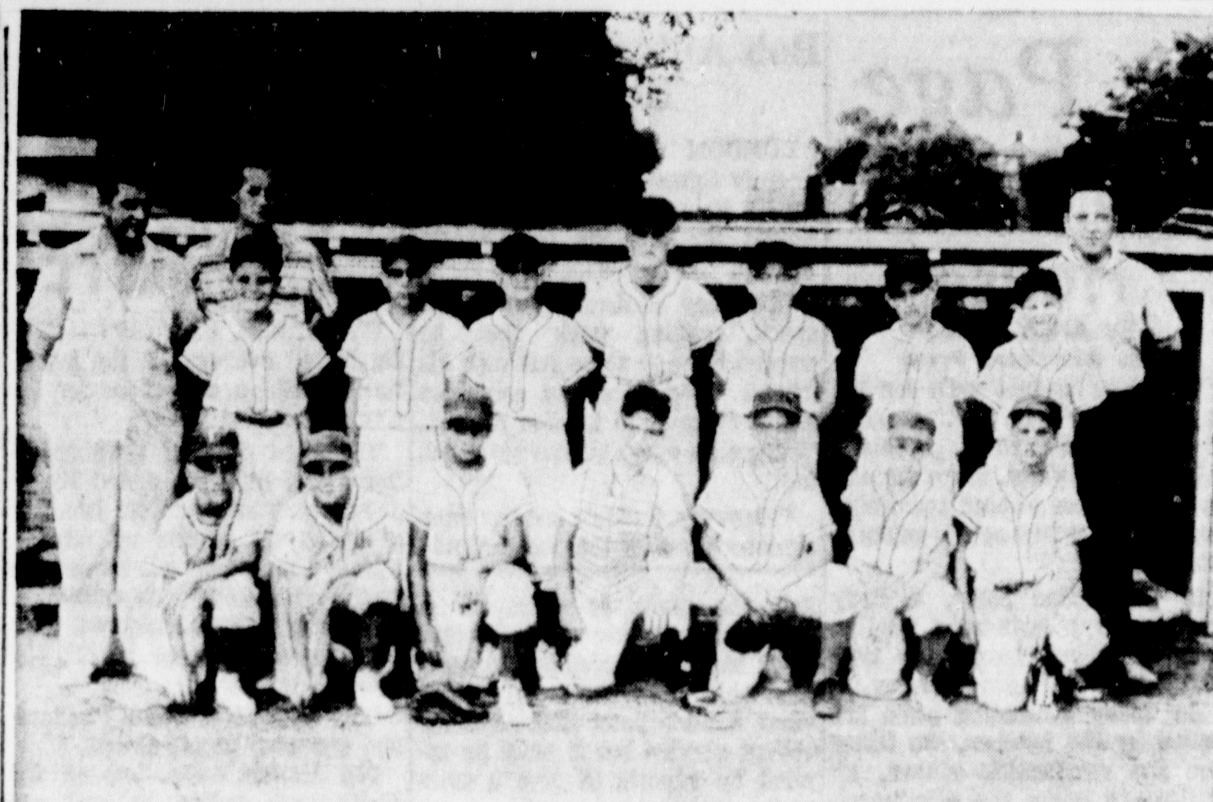

MacKay, of Dayton, Ohio, defending champion of the tournament knocked off Abe Segal, South Africa 8-6, 6-3. He had to come from 1-5 in the first set, but had no trouble in the second.

Krishnan posted a 10-8, 8-4 win over Vic Seixas, former U. S. Davis Cup star and seven times holder of the Pennsylvania title. Seixas, a Philadelphia, has been cutting down on tournament play lately.

Paired in the women's singles were Sally Moore of Bakersfield, Calif., against Rene Schurman of South Africa, and Karen Hantze San Diego, Calif., against Sandra Reynolds, also of South Africa.

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Public Utility Commission plans to intervene in a case before the Federal Power Commission involving the New York Natural Gas Corporation plan to increase wholesale natural gas rates in Pennsylvania.

The New York State firm is seeking a $115,544 annual increase in prices charged three utilities.

Big League

The Elks added the playoff title to the regular season championship of the Big Little League by defeating Aero Oil 7-2 Friday evening.

Manager Johnny Toggas' champions smacked out nine hits as compared to five for the Aero outfit.

A walk, stolen base and a hit gave the Oilmen a run in the second inning. In the top of the third the Elks scored twice on three hits and a walk. In the bottom of the same frame Aero knotted the score.

A two-run homer by Curt Mayer, his seventh of the season, featured the three-run rally by the Elks in the fourth. An insurance run by the Elks in the fifth wound up the scoring.

Aero Oil missed many scoring opportunities, leaving no less than 14 runners stranded. Twice they loaded the bases but could manufacture only one run.

A game-saver for the Elks came in the bottom of the fourth when Steve Olson, left fielder, backed up against the fence and leaped to catch Ken Hull's long drive. There were two runners on base at the time.

The league All-Stars will meet the Old Timers Monday at 6 p.m. to wind up league activity for the season.

JOHNSON WINS BY DECISION

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Willie Pastrano, his right hand dunked in a bucket of ice water wants another crack at Alonzo Johnson.

Johnson, a former Braddock, Pa., barber, unleashed a punishing body attack Friday night to earn a unanimous 10-round heavyweight decision over the nimble Pastrano.

Pastrano said he jammed his right thumb in the first round but it did not hamper him from using his right hand. He said he "felt a little rusty" after a layoff since February.

Johnson and Manager Mike Bazzano said they followed a pre-fight plan calculated to slow down the fleet Willie.

"We figured we had to go for the body," Bazzano said. "It worked."

A punishing body attack in the seventh staggered Pastrano, but he did not go down.

The triumph was Johnson's 13th straight and brought his record to 18-1. Pastrano, now 48-8-5, weighed 187 pounds. Johnson, 183's.

The bout was televised nationally.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The State Supreme Court ruled Friday that a county court may not increase the stated salary of an elected official.

The school district of Newtown Twp. appealed to the high court, in the case of Fred W. Myers, real estate school tax collector.

3 RICH RACES ON CARD TODAY

A trio of 3-year-olds, each with a legitimate claim to a division title, are favored in three races on the gold-studded national turf card today.

But the richest stake of the day brings together the best of the older fillies and mares in the $150,000 added Delaware handicap at Delaware Park with the championship probably hanging on the outcome.

Sword Dancer, winner of the Belmont stakes after running second in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, is the 8-5 choice over nine older horses in the 1¼ miles of the $100,000 added Monmouth Handicap at Monmouth Park.

Intentionally, generally regarded as the fastest 3-year-old sprinter, is the odds-on-choice to defeat six others of his age in the $100,000 added Arlington classic at one mile. The Brookfield Farm's speedster is colider with Swaps of the world record of 1:33 1-5 for the distance.

Bagdad, recent winner of the Hollywood Park Derby and runner-up to Sword Dancer in the Belmont, also is a heavy favorite for the $75,000 added Dwyer Handicap, a one and three-sixteenths mile test for 3-year-olds at Jamaica.

In contrast there is no stand-out in the field of 12 named for the 1¼-mile Delaware handicap.

Waterfowl Add Color To Farm Pond; Earth Serves As Coolant For Chickens

By FRANK S. ZETTLER

Adams County Farm Agent

Nothing adds the finishing touch to a farm pond like a few well selected waterfowl. But picturesque waterfowl for the pond can turn into a nightmare if the pond owner does not select the proper numbers and species of waterfowl for the size and location of the pond. An overpopulation of waterfowl can foul the water, interfere with fish life, destroy vegetation on the banks, and turn the scene into a mudhole.

Birds for ponds are usually selected for their ornamental features, mannerisms, habits, and lack of destructiveness. Since most waterfowl are very hardy and resistant to disease and parasites, they can, with little care, be kept comfortable and in good condition.

Bantam sized, or Call ducks, are best suited for small ponds. They come in two varieties, white and gray. When mature, these little fellows weigh only about two pounds, and their relatively short necks and bills won't permit them to reach the bottom and muddy the water to any great extent.

Rich Plumage
A little larger than the Calls but equally desirable as pond ornaments are the Black East India ducks with their rich greenish black plumage, and the Mallards. All three of the varieties are hardy and proficient in rearing their young.

Other breeds of ducks frequently seen around farms are White Pekins, Aylesburys and Rouens.

Some less common species are Indian Runners, White Crested and Black Cayugas. Generally these are less adapted than the Calls, Mallards and East Indians in nesting and rearing their young. For those who don't like the loud quacking of ducks, Muscovys can be used for they are relatively quiet, hardy, and forage well. Geese and swans lend themselves for ponds of one half acre or larger. Both are basically grazing birds, not bottom feeders, and will help keep weeds under control. It is well to fence the pond area when these birds are kept. Geese, barring accident, live 30 years; swans from 40 to 100 years of age.

Chicken Cooler

In hot weather chickens, like people, seek to find cooler areas for greater comfort. That's why chickens confined to houses often scratch holes in the litter, sometimes they almost bury themselves. They find it's cooler under the litter.

When houses have concrete or earth floors, the chickens really like this. The cooler temperatures come up from the ground. When the birds scratch down to the floor their bodies can contact the cooler, more comfortable place.

It is estimated that in most Pennsylvania soils the temperature the year around is about 48 to 50 degrees. That's four feet below the surface. The cooler soil temperature radiates toward the surface during hot weather.

If the litter is not too deep in the house, the birds can get down easier to these cooler floors and get more comfortable temperatures for their body comfort.

Pasture Heifers Wisely

Pasture is the cheapest source of nutrients for dairy cattle but many times the economy of this cheap feed is lost because it does not supply enough to meet the needs of growing heifers in summer months.

Heifers can be kept growing normally while on pasture, but pastures must be fertilized and clipped so that fresh growing forage is available throughout the summer. In addition, heifers should have free access to good hay so that dry matter intake will not keep heifers from meeting their total nutrient needs. Hay also supplies a source of nutrients

On The House

By ANDY LANG
The Associated Press

We never thought we'd see the day when we'd be writing about the painting of swimming pools.

In the first place, there weren't enough persons owning swimming pools a few years ago to make it worthwhile.

In the second place, anybody who owned a swimming pool in those days was hardly the type who would do his own painting.

But today swimming pools are owned by the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker, all anxious to enjoy the advantages of backyard recreation. There are pools made of concrete, of masonry blocks, of steel, of aluminum, of fiber glass and of vinyl, with new combinations of materials hitting the market almost every week. One of the latest uses specially treated wooden sides, which are covered with a plastic lining.

Makes More Attractive
Obviously, some of these materials require less maintenance than others. But painting makes most pools more attractive, keeps concrete from chipping and metal from corroding and gives a smooth surface that is easier to keep clean and sanitary.

Paints for concrete must be resistant to the alkali that attacks ordinary paints and must be able to resist the chemicals used to purify the water. There is a special type of paint formulated to meet these problems and is known, quite naturally, as swimming pool paint. It covers about 200 square feet per gallon. Since this paint dries rapidly, it is important to follow the directions on the label very carefully.

Portland cement water paints also are used for pools but have a tendency to chalk as they age. And it is difficult to repaint under when pastures become scarce during dry spells. When pastures are not producing new growth, and hay is poor in quality, it will pay to supply two or three pounds of grain for each heifer daily. Heifers should also have free access to water on pasture.

Some form of fly control will also be beneficial in promoting good growth. A back rubber can easily be constructed and needs attention only once every couple of weeks.

To guard against infesting heifers with internal parasites heifers should be pastured away from milking or dry cows. Observe heifers frequently for sickness or injuries, for neglect may mean loss in both growth and production.

Bob Autographs Blank Check

LONDON (AP) — Bob Hope sleepily signed a blank check held out by an autograph seeker as he waited for a plane to Brussels Friday.

"The boy dashed off with the check, calling back that he wanted to have some fun with his friends," the American comedian told a reporter at London Airport. "I hope he doesn't have too much fun."

"However, I didn't use my bank signature, and if the check should less the chalk is removed. A combination latex-cement-water paint has been developed to meet this objection. There is also a vinyl solution paint that gives excellent service but it must be applied by experts to give a completely satisfactory result.

Steel Pool Advice

Steel swimming pools must be given a first coat of marine anti-corrosive primer. This is followed by a topcoat designed for marine use that will withstand continuous immersion. Solvent-thinned rubber resin paints also are recommended.

Proper preparation of the surface is, of course, essential for a good result. A concrete pool that has never been painted should be scrubbed to remove oil, dirt, algae and other foreign materials. Use a stiff bristled brush and any household detergent, then wash off, it may be that a mold is present. Destroy it with a household bleach and again hose down completely.

Another recommended operation in previously unpainted pools is to etch the concrete with an acid wash to provide a roughened surface that will give a good mechanical bond. Muriatic acid in a 10 per cent solution will do the job, but goggles, rubber boots and gloves are necessary.

Scrub Old Surfaces

Old painted surfaces should be scrubbed. But where the old paint is in poor condition, chalking and peeling, it should be removed by sand blasting, usually a professional job. In the case of a steel pool, all rust should be removed when the sand blasting is done. The pool should be primed immediately with the marine anti-corrosive primer previously mentioned.

The method of applying the paint depends on the smoothness of the surface. For a concrete pool that is not extremely smooth, a spray or brush will do a better job than a roller, but a roller will lay down a heavier coat of paint faster. A spray will penetrate pits and holes in the surface.

It's a good idea to use a skid-resistant paint on walkways and around the pool to reduce the likelihood of falls.

BIG BELTED OVERCOAT IS FASHION PET

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — The big belted overcoat is the pet of Italian fashion collections for the coming fall and winter.

The eight days of showings in Rome and Florence ended Thursday night. The couturiers joined in a buckle up, muffle up refrain. Heavy muted tweeds were fashioned into a cape-back silhouette, bulky and round-shouldered, with deep low-set sleeves baring the wrists.

Only Simonetta avoided collars, and she used ample stoles.

The Italian collections on the whole were sedate, tailored and cautious. Their frivolity was restricted to fur trimmings, chunky necklaces and an occasional flounce.

Emilio Schuberth was an exception. As usual, he added frills at every opportunity.

Dark colors and conservative fabrics dominated daytime clothes. But lame (pronounced lah-may), embossed satin and encrusted lace ran riot at night.

Suits and dresses generally were straight and slim, with hemlines below the knees. Tunic tops came back, both fitted and loose. Suit jackets tended to hug the hips.

The waistline wandered slightly, mostly south. Hemlines frequently were doubled by the prevalent use of redingotes, middies and coats slightly shorter than the skirts beneath.

The collections of two designers under 30 were outstanding.

Roberto Capucci showed voluminous evening coats and trim tunic suits. Patrick de Barentzen, Fath-trained Frenchman showing for the second time in Rome, scored with low-slung trench coats and imaginative detail.

Other highlights of the Italian pageant of style were Irene Galitzine's Trompe l'Oeil suits, Fabiani's girded tweed ponchos, and the knitted silks seen among the Florence boutique offerings.

be presented, my bank wouldn't honor it—I hope."

Hope was en route to the Belgian capital to keep a golfing date with King Baudouin, whom he met during the King's recent tour of America.

WARN AGAINST COUNTERFEITS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Secret Service agents warned businessmen in the Philadelphia area Thursday of a ring of counterfeit money "pushers" who have victimized hotels, restaurants, and even a bank.

Special Agent Joseph P. Jordan said the Secret Service has purchased $500,000 worth of the bills in trying to discover those responsible for making them. He did not say how the purchases were made. Jordan said the bills are old-looking and have the feel of legitimate money. Often, they have the designation "K-21" or "L-21" in the lower right hand corner of the face.

The pushers, described as two men and a woman, have used the bills in clothing stores, hotels and restaurants, for tickets to Connie Mack Stadium and in other places where large bills are not uncommon.

One of the fake bills was turned in at a bank, where it passed through all the money handlers. It was detected and confiscated.

BLUE LAWS GO BLUER IN ST. JOSEPH, MO.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — If you're in St. Joseph Sunday and would like a beer, you'll have no trouble buying it. But just try to buy a sack of peanuts to nibble on. Or a package of cigarettes.

A new city ordinance governing business on Sunday was adopted recently by the City Council of St. Joseph, a city of 78,588 in northwest Missouri.

It was drafted by City Atty. Fred E. Schoenlaub and his staff of five to liberalize an old blue law which said, in effect, don't buy, don't sell and don't play on Sunday.
